ENGLISH ANCESTRY

Although there are certain discrepancies in the records, and a well-known genealogist has recently expressed doubt regarding the parentage of John Collins I of Boston, the majority of the writers indicate that the head of this branch of the Collins family was John Collins of London, England.

The early record states that John Collins lived in London and Frampton, County of Suffolk, England, where he died and was buried. His wife was known to have been Abigail Rose, daughter of Thomas Rose of Plymouth, County of Devon. She was buried at Braintree, County of Essex, England.

The children of John and Abigail Rose Collins were:

1. Edward Born about 1603 in England. Died April 9, 1689, at Charlestown, Massachusetts. Married Martha _____. He is known in the records as Deacon Edward Collins.
Children:

- (1) Daniel Born in England in 1629. A merchant, later residing in Königsberg, Prussia.
 - (2) John Born in England in 1633. Died December 5, 1687
 - (3) Samuel Born in England in 1636. Died at Middletown, Connecticut, January 10, 1696
 - (4) Sibyl Born 1638 Died _____. Married 1st, Rev. John Whiting, Harvard College, 1653, a minister at Salem, Massachusetts and Hartford, Connecticut; married 2nd, Rev. John Russell of Hadley, Massachusetts.
 - (5) Martha Born September, 1639, in Cambridge. Married Rev. Joshua Moody, Harvard College, 1653. He was a minister at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, who died at Boston while visiting there, July 4, 1697.
 - (6) Nathaniel Born March 7, 1642, at Cambridge. Died at Middletown, December 28, 1664.
 - (7) Abigail Born in 1644 at Cambridge. Married John Ballou.
 - (8) Edward Baptized June, 1646, in Cambridge.
2. ~~Jane~~ I. Born in England about 1616. Died March 29, 1670, in New England. Married Susannah _____.

JOHN I (Continued)

Children of John I and Susannah Collins:

- (1) JOHN Born 1610. Died December 10, 1701.
- (2) Susannah Born March 24, 1643
- (3) Thomas Born September 5, 1645
- (4) Elizabeth Born April 8, 1648

3. Daniel A London merchant. Died in 1643. Married Sybil, daughter of Thomas Francklyn, who was Vicar of Braintree, Essex County, England.

4. Samuel

5. Abigail Married 1st, Samuel Bidle of Wolverston, Essex County, England; 2nd, William Thompson of New England.

The records indicate that Deacon Edward Collins came to America in 1630, and the evidence points to the fact that John Collins I came a few years earlier, possibly as early as 1633. Both men were active and prominent in colonial affairs all of their lives. Additional information on John Collins I is given in following pages.

Due to the prominence of Deacon Edward Collins and the abundance of information regarding him which is to be found in the various records, a brief account is here given about him.

Certain well known genealogists, such as Steiner and Savage, and in addition, the Dr. Talcott Records, state that Deacon Edward Collins and John Collins of Boston were brothers and sons of John Collins of London, as previously outlined. An article in Volume 89 (1955) of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register by Winifred Lowering Holman of Watertown, Massachusetts, throws doubt on the view which was earlier accepted, and states that a John Collins, who was buried at Bramford County, Suffolk, on September 14, 1594, wife's name unknown, was probably the father of John Collins of London who married Abigail Rose. Although she believes this John Collins to have been the father of Deacon Edward Collins, she finds no record of the baptism of John Collins, born about 1616, and believes, therefore, that he was the son of some other Collins line. There is apparently evidence to support both contentions. The following items are included herein as of interest only if John Collins I and Deacon Edward Collins were brothers.

Deacon Edward Collins appears first in records at Cambridge, Massachusetts, in 1650. He was made a freeman on May 13, 1650, and was Deacon of the First Church. With the exception of the year 1661, he was a representative in the General Court from 1654 to 1670. He lived on a plantation owned by Governor Cradock at Medford, and later purchased it. He died at Charlestown, Massachusetts, on April 9, 1699, aged 86 years.

Cotton Mather in the "Magnolia" speaks of Edward as "a good old man, the deacon of the church at Cambridge, who is now gone to heaven; but before he went thither, had the satisfaction to see several most worthy sons become very famous persons in their generations".

Deacon Edward had many prominent descendants, including a grandson who married the granddaughter of Governor William Bradford (apparently the source of the statement that this branch of the Collins family had a Mayflower ancestry), General Alfred Terry of Civil War fame, and William Collins Whitney, Secretary of the Navy.

John, the second son of Deacon Edward, graduated from Harvard College in 1649. He returned to England and became a celebrated clergyman. Nathaniel, fourth son of Deacon Edward also became a prominent minister.

JOHN COLLINS I (1616-1670)

John Collins I, the second son of John and Abigail Rose Collins, was born in England about 1616. His wife was Susannah, maiden name unknown. They came to New England and lived at various times at Cambridge, Boston, and Braintree, Massachusetts. They are known to have been in America prior to 1640, and possibly as early as 1633.

John Collins I was admitted to the church at Boston on April 4, 1646, and was made a Freeman according to Colonial Law on May 6, 1646. He became a member of "The Honorable Artillery Company" of Boston, an organization which was still in active existence in Boston as late as 1897.

The records show that John Collins was an active and prominent man. His business was that of a shoemaker and tanner. He held a grant of land in Braintree, Massachusetts in 1640, and was well known in the affairs of the Massachusetts Colony.

John Collins I died on March 29, 1670.

Children:

1. JOHN II Born in 1640. Died December 10, 1704
2. Susannah Born March 24, 1643 and baptized April 5, 1646, at Boston. Married Thomas Walker, March 25, 1662, a brickmaker of Boston.
3. Thomas Born September 5, 1645. Known to have been a merchant in Boston in 1670.
4. Elizabeth Born April 8, 1648. Baptized at Boston

JOHN COLLINS II (1640-1704)

John Collins II, the eldest son of John I and Susannah Collins, was born in Boston about 1640. He was married in 1662 to Mary Trowbridge, about whose ancestry no information has come to light. Mary Trowbridge Collins died in Branford, Connecticut, in 1667. She was the mother of John's three children.

John Collins II was married a second time June 2nd, 1669, to Mary Stevens, the widow of Henry Kingsnorth of Guilford, and daughter of an early settler, John Stevens. (Some say that she was the sister of Henry Kingsnorth, which may have been the case as proved by property deeds mentioned in the following pages.)

March 6th, 1700, John Collins II married his third wife, Dorcas Main Painter, daughter of Samuel Main, and widow of John Painter. She remarried after John's death in 1704.

John II probably moved to Branford about 1662 and removed to Guilford, Connecticut, in 1667, or in 1669, at the time of his marriage to Mary Kingsnorth, when he settled on Fair Street. From 1686 to 1692 he lived on Crooked Lane, now known as State Street. Comfort Starr, a tanner, bought the property in 1692, and the house, which is still standing (1936), is now called the Comfort Starr place.

John Collins II is known as one of the early settlers of Guilford, having signed the agreement in 1669 when the town was chartered. He apparently took an important part in the activities of the then prominent colonial town of Guilford. He had learned his father's trade of tanner, but must have given this up as he taught school in Guilford from September 1682 for some years, having been teaching as late as 1702. He was one of the patentees of Guilford and was called a "Townsman".

He died at Guilford, December 10, 1704, and his will was proved January 1, 1705.

Children of John II and Mary Trowbridge Collins:

1. Mary Born in 1663 or 1665. Died in 1695. Married Deacon Nathaniel Chapman of Saybrook in 1681.

2. JOHN III Born in 1665. Died in 1751. Married Ann Leete

3. Robert Born in 1667. Died August 20, 1745. Married 1st, Lois Burnett of Long Island, December 26, 1689; 2nd Mary Foster, June 3, 1707. Robert lived in Middletown and Meriden. He and Lois Collins had nine children

Miscellaneous Notes

Oliver Collins, a grandson of Robert (born 1667) served as a general in the War of the Revolution and in the War of 1812. He was a resident of New Hartford, Oneida County, New York.

At this point in the manuscript, because of the part in the early history of Guilford, Connecticut, taken by John Collins I¹ and II² and because of the many maternal lines which this branch of the Collins family has to the founders of Guilford (See Charts 1, 3, and 4.) it seems proper to include notes taken from Steiner's History of Guilford in which he mentions the activities of many of our forebears.

NOTES FROM STEINER'S ACCOUNT OF THE FOUNDRY AND NAMING OF GUILFORD

The town of Guilford was founded by a group of Englishmen lead by the Rev. Henry Whitfield. He was born in 1597, the son of a distinguished English family. He was married to Dorothy Sheaffe, whose brother, Jacob, was one of the company which sailed to America.

The Rev. Whitfield was a minister of the Church of England. According to the available information, he became a nonconformist and was unwilling to continue longer in the ministry of the Established church. Soon afterward he became a Congregationalist and a Puritan. There seemed no place for him to continue his activities in his native country and so he organized a group of friends, among them William Lecte, William Chittenden, Jacob Sheaffe, and Abraham Cruttenden, all distinguished Puritans, many of whom had left England to avoid persecution. Dr. Mather says in his writing that Mr. Lecte was obliged to resign his place as Registrar of Bishop Ely's Court and was exposed to persecution. Mr. Chittenden is known to have gone to Holland for a time for a similar reason.

The group lead by Rev. Whitfield planned to settle near Quillipack (now New Haven). About ten days out on the voyage they saw the necessity of making a Covenant to keep the band unbroken and for mutual benefit. This Covenant, signed by about twenty-five men of the company, is now in possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society. It is known as the Plantation Covenant, and among the signers appear the names of John Bishop, William Chittenden, William Lecte, Abraham Cruttenden, Henry Kingnorth, Henry Whitfield, and Jacob Sheaffe. Most of the men signing the Covenant were young, an unusual fact in those times for a new settlement.

The company is believed to have come to America on the ship "St. John". A letter describing the passage reads: "The passage was so ordered as it appeared, that prayers were accepted, for they had no sickness, but a little seasickness - not one dead - they arrived to their haven where they would be in seven weeks".

After arriving in Quillipack the company got possession of the land about Menunkatuck by negotiations with the Indians, the Quinnipiacks. (This land is apparently between what is now New Haven and the present site of Guilford.) Civil power for the administration of justice was given to four men, three of whom being William Chittenden, John Bishop, and William Lecte.

Guilford was named for the town of Guilford, or Guildford, in Surrey, England. The original village green was comprised of about sixteen acres. The Rev. Whitfield's house of 1659 (now known as the Old Stone House and maintained as a Museum) was used as a place for religious meetings and fortification from the Indians. The house was restored in 1902, having been kept in its original form until that time, and certain features were added.

(Note: Now, in 1936, it is being put back into its original shape.)
Originally the place was on four acres of land.

Following are short sketches about individuals who are named in the history of this branch of the Collins family.

William Leete, one of the pillars of the Guilford First Church, was probably born at Keystone in Huntingdonshire, England, in 1611. His father was John Leete. He was, therefore, about twenty-eight years of age at the time of the emigration. He married while still in England. His first child, a son, John, is said to have been the first white child born in Guilford. (He was the father of Ann Leete who married John Collins III). He was born in 1639.

It is supposed that William Leete was a graduate of Cambridge. He was an important lawyer and showed skill in drafting agreements with the Indians at the time of the settlement. The originals of many of the Leete papers are now in possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Mr. Leete's homelot was comprised of three and one-quarter acres, and was on the corner of what is now Broad and River streets. His out-lot was on a point of land which is an island at high tide, and is named for him as Leete's Island. Until 1706 this land was used largely as a horse pasture. Before the Revolution there were only five or six houses there, only one resident not being a member of the Leete Family. There is a record of a Revolutionary battle at Leete's Island. (Descendants of William Leete are still living on the island in 1936.)

Mr. Leete was a very prominent person in the affairs of the colony and later of New Haven and Connecticut Colonies. He was first made magistrate of the Plantation Court and later Chief Magistrate of the New Haven County Court. When the New Haven Colony joined the Colony of Connecticut, William Leete was Deputy Governor from 1668 to 1669.

A short biography of William Leete follows:

1651-58	Magistrate of Guilford and one of Court Magistrates of New Haven Colony
1658-61	Deputy Governor of Colony
1661-64	Governor of Colony
1664-	Magistrate
1669-76	Deputy Governor of Connecticut
1676-83	Governor of Connecticut

It was said of him that he "Presided in time of greatest difficulty, yet always conducted himself with integrity and wisdom as to meet the public approbation".

After being elected governor, he moved to Hartford where it was said that his life was "full of honors". He was an intimate friend of Governor Winthrop. A letter which he wrote Gov. Winthrop is preserved by the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Governor Leete was buried at Hartford. His tombstone was found in 1850 when earth was being removed from an old burial ground. His eldest son, John died

November 1692, aged about 55 years. He was the first white person born in Guilford. Governor Leete's first wife, Anna Payne, was the daughter of a clergyman and came from England with him in the Whitfield company.

Someone said of Governor Leete that he was "slow and cautious in reaching a decision, but nearly always deciding aright". He was known as "Guilford's greatest statesman".

(Note: Further information on the Leete Family will be found in later pages of this manuscript.)

Jacob Sheaffe was also regarded as a pillar of the Guilford Church. He was the youngest son of Dr. Edmund and Joanna Sheaffe, and was born at Cranbrook, County of Kent, England, on August 4, 1616. He was the brother of Edmund Sheaffe, Jr., who emigrated to Boston, and was also the brother of Mrs. Joanna Chittenden, wife of William Chittenden, and of Mrs. Dorothy Whitfield, wife of Rev. Henry Whitfield. Jacob Sheaffe married Margaret Webb, the only child of Mr. Henry Webb of Boston, and the wealthiest heiress of the town in 1642. He was later a Boston merchant.

William Chittenden was born in Cranbrook, County of Kent, England, about 1610. He was married to Joanna Sheaffe, sister of Jacob Sheaffe. Mr. Chittenden served fourteen times as deputy to the Jurisdiction Court of New Haven. He was the Lieutenant of the train-band and the principal military man in the plantation. He died in February, 1660.

John Bishop married Ann _____ in England. Several of their children were born in England. His estate was one of the largest in the Guilford plantation. He died in January 1660-1.

Comfort Starr, a tailor, came from Middletown about 1690. In 1692 he purchased the home lot of John Collins on Crooked Lane, now State Street.

John Collins, Jr. is listed as a later settler in Guilford. He had learned his father's trades, those of shoemaker and tanner, but was a well educated man. The record states that he moved to Middletown in 1663, to Branford in 1667, and to Guilford in 1669. (These dates are doubtful prior to 1669). He bought John Steven's house and land and was made a planter February 15, 1670-1. He married Mary, sister of Henry Kingsnorth, and afterwards came into possession of the lands of Henry and James Kingsnorth. (Note: There is some confusion in the records over the relationship of John Collins' wife and Henry Kingsnorth. She is supposed to have been his widow, but the following account of the sale of the Kingsnorth property will show the confusion.)

John Collins is listed as one of the signers on the Patent for Confirmation of Land Purchases about 1685.

John Collins was engaged as the town school teacher in 1682. On January 19, 1683-4, the town voted the school teacher the salary of thirty pounds, two-thirds to be paid by the town and the balance by those having children taught. Payment could be made in wheat. Families who had children in the school were required to furnish wood for heating the building. John Collins stopped teaching in 1696, and his immediate successor is not known, there being, apparently, some difficulty in finding a suitable person. John taught again from December 16, 1700, to November 27, 1701.

Henry Kingsnorth, one of the signers of the Covenant, was from Staplehurst, County of Kent. He was born about 1618. Mr. Kingsnorth married Mary Stevens, the daughter of an early settler, John Stevens. They had no children. He died in the "time of the great sickness" in 1683, and disposed of his Guilford property to such "son of his brother Daniel Kingsnorth who should come from England for it, otherwise to John Collins and his wife Mary". James Kingsnorth, a nephew of Henry, came to Guilford the following year and resided there until his death in 1682. He had no children, and so after five years the estate was to revert to his "Uncle and Aunt Collins", they sending each brother or son of a brother in England plate worth three pounds. The real estate was deeded to John Collins in 1686.

Miscellaneous Notes:

The first town meetings were held at Mr. Chittenden's house, later on in the church, for not until Revolutionary times was a building especially erected for the town meetings. The new building was not ready when the lawlessness of the Revolution made necessary a vote on April 10, 1780, that "Capt. Dan. Collins (apparently the son of our Daniel) is to prepare and find a suitable lock to the Town House Door and to commence and prosecute to effect any Actions against any person who shall be guilty of any abuse to the Town House" by breaking doors, glass, etc.

Mention is made of the erection of a saw mill between the John Collins Cut lot and the old mill in 1685. Taxes were first paid in corn, wheat, and peas. Apparently some branch of the Collins family had a salt works on Collins' Island in Great Harbor during the Revolution, as comment is made upon it.

The First Church was finished in 1643. A horse shed was built for it in 1703 on the petition of John Collins and others. Daniel Collins entered the ministry from First Church, as did Timothy Collins.

North Guilford was allowed to have a separate parish organization about 1720. Among the signers of the petition for this move was Daniel Collins. The North Guilford records showed that Daniel Collins, Aaron C. Collins, and Augustus Collins, entered the ministry from there. A William R. Collins is mentioned as having died in 1837, aged 93 years, after having served as a deacon of North Guilford Church since 1825.

The first cemetery in Guilford was on the village green where the Soldiers' Monument now stands (Center). The monuments were moved about 1817, as the graves were trampled by people and cattle.

The following persons with the name of Collins are listed among the Guilford students at Yale College:

- | | |
|------|--|
| 1718 | Rev. Timothy Collins, M.A. |
| 1760 | Rev. Daniel Collins, M.A. (North Guilford) |
| 1786 | Rev. Aaron Cook Collins, M.A. (North Guilford) |
| 1795 | Alexander Collins (North Guilford) |

The Master Roll from the French Wars, 1745, shows the names of Daniel Chittenden, Jr., and William Collins as having taken part in the Expedition at Fort Henry.

Revolutionary Records -

- 1775 Capt. Augustus Collins served in Col. Ely's State Regiment
1776 Col. Wolcott's regiment lists Sgt. Dan Collins and Second Lt.
Augustus Collins.

General Augustus Collins who served in the Revolution was a man in prominence in public affairs. He was a magistrate for many years and served the town in nearly forty sessions of the legislature. His sister, Lorraine, married Gov. Oliver Wolcott, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. General Collins was born August 7, 1743, and died April 30, 1814. He lived in North Guilford.

Rev. Timothy Collins (Yale 1718) was born in Guilford April 15, 1699. He was the pastor at Bantam, later called Litchfield, from 1730 to 1752. He was then dismissed as an "Old Light". He served in Litchfield after his dismissal as a physician and magistrate until his death in February, 1777. He was a surgeon in the French and Indian wars in 1755 and 1762.

JOHN COLLINS III (1665-1751)

John Collins III, the first son of John Collins II and Mary Brewbridge Collins, was born in Saybrook, Massachusetts Bay in 1665. He married Ann Leete, the daughter of John Leete, and granddaughter of Gov. William Leete of Connecticut on July 23, 1681. (Data on Gov. Leete will be found elsewhere in this compilation) Ann Leete was born August 5, 1671.

The writer has found little on the activities of John Collins III. He is known to have been a tanner and cordwainer, and presumably followed his trade in Guilford.

John Collins III died January 4, 1751, and his wife died November 2, 1744, at the age of 53 years.

Children:

1. Ann Born May 9, 1692 Died October 11, 1745. Married Daniel Bartlett of Guilford on March 3, 1720.

Children:

- (1) Daniel
- (2) Anne
- (3) Nathaniel
- (4) Avis
- (5) John

2. Mary Born April 11, 1694 Died February 2, 1729

3. John Born February 25, 1696/97. Died in 1760. Married Rachel Nix in 1716. They had eleven children.

4. Timothy I Born February 11, 1698 Died February 19, 1699

5. Timothy II Born April 3, 1699 Died in 1777. Yale College, 1713. Married Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel Hyds of Lebanon. They had eight children.

6. DANIEL Born July 15, 1701. Died October 8, 1751. Married Lois Cornwall. They had eleven children.

7. Susannah Born September 25, 1703 Died October 5, 1703

8. Samuel Born November 2, 1704. Died December 8, 1784. Married Margery Leete. They had eight children.

9. Mercy Born January 19, 1707/9 Died January 22, 1786. Married Lieutenant Samuel Hobson (or Hopson?) of Willingford

10. Oliver Born October 18, 1710 Died February 20, 1783. Married 1st Elizabeth Hall; 2nd, Abigail Bartlett. Had fourteen children.

11. Avis Born April 1, 1714 Died November 1, 1754 Married Peter Duell (or Bird?)

12. Dunice Birth record missing.

Miscellaneous Notes:

Rev. Timothy Collins (1699-1777), third son of John Collins III, was graduated from Yale College in 1718. He was apparently the first minister of Litchfield, Connecticut. He also served as a doctor.

Rev. Timothy was a subscriber to "Prince's Chronology". Individuals so listed were regarded as the important literati of New England at that period. An acquaintance of Rev. Timothy's said of him that he was "tall, slim, and had a weak voice".

Additional notes on Rev. Timothy Collins are included in the Steiner record quoted with the data on the previous generation.

CAPT. DANIEL COLLINS (1701-1751)

Capt. Daniel Collins, the fourth son of John Collins III and Ann Lester Collins, was born June 15, 1701, at Guilford. He married Lois Cornwell of Litchfield, on March 15, 1723. Lois, the daughter of William Cornwell, a figure of importance in the early days of Middletown and Hartford, was born in 1701, and baptized February 18, 1702.

Although Daniel Collins apparently entered the ministry from First Church in Guilford, he was known as "Captain". His military record is not known by the writer.

Capt. Daniel Collins died October 2, 1751, and is buried in North Guilford. Lois, his wife, died February 4, 1758, and is buried at Litchfield.

Children:

1. Anne Born February 23, 1726 Died July 22, 1760. Married Timothy Fowler of North Guilford in 1753.
2. WILLIAM Born March 10, 1728 Died April 12, 1775 Married Ruth Cook
3. Lorrain Born January 1, 1731 Died in 1794 Married Hon. Oliver Wolcott of Litchfield
4. Freeloze Born November 30, 1732 Died December 13, 1765 Married Stephen Baldwin of Goshen, Connecticut
5. Avis Born July 31, 1734 Died November 23, 1812 Married Daniel Bartlett of Guilford

Miscellaneous Notes:

Lorrain, second daughter of Capt. Daniel and Lois Cornwall Collins, was known as "Laura". (Her picture appears on page 95 of The Collins Family, by William H. Collins). Laura married Oliver Wolcott, son of Roger Wolcott who was Governor of Connecticut in 1751. Oliver was graduated from Yale College in 1747. In 1751 he was the Sheriff of Litchfield County and in 1774 a Counsellor. During the War of the Revolution he served as a Major General, and later was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He was Lieutenant-Governor from 1786 to 1796, and Governor of Connecticut in 1796.

Laura was regarded as a very distinguished woman and is said to have been very helpful to Gen. Wolcott in his military and political career. Their son, Oliver, Jr., 1760-1833, a lawyer, was Secretary of the United States Treasury from 1795 to 1800. From 1800 to 1802 he was a Circuit Judge and from 1818 to 1827, he was Governor of Connecticut, the third in his line to have the honor.

Rev. Daniel Collins, second son of Capt. Daniel and Lois Collins, graduated from Yale in 1760. He preached at Lanesborough from 1764 to 1782, where he was greatly esteemed.

General Augustus Collins, fourth son of Capt. Daniel and Lois Collins, married Mary Chittenden on June 9, 1768. He became a general in the War of the Revolution. He later lived at Guilford and represented the town thirty-five times in the General Assembly between 1783 and 1815. He and his wife had nine children.

The following copy of the Inscription on Tombstones (Taken from the New Haven Colony Historical Society Papers, Vol. I) may be of interest. The original spelling has been copied.

(The writer and her father, George Collins, visited Guilford and North Guilford in the summer of 1935 and saw the inscriptions which have been copied)

Miscellaneous Notes:

William Collins, eldest son of William and Ruth Cook Collins enlisted for service in the War of the Revolution when he was 17 years old. He first served under the command of Col. Jonathan Beige and later under his uncle, Gen. Augustus Collins. He was in a Revolutionary skirmish at Guilford.

He used the pension money which he received in 1810 for religious and educational purposes. He had already subscribed the first $500.00 toward the establishment of Illinois College.

Samuel Collins, the fourth son of William and Ruth Collins, also served in the War of the Revolution, having enlisted at the age of 16 years. (See notes on next generation.)

A granddaughter of William and Ruth Collins was a teacher of Harriet Beecher Stowe, who later became famous as Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of Uncle Tom's Cabin.

SAMUEL COLLINS (1765-1840)

Samuel Collins, fourth son of William and Ruth Cook Collins was born July 11, 1765, at Guilford. He married Elizabeth (Betsey) Bishop, daughter of Nathaniel and Ruth Bishop on October 22, 1793. She was born September 4, 1774.

They apparently lived at North Guilford, Connecticut, and Lenox, Massachusetts, until about 1805, when they moved to Berkshire, Tioga County, New York, along with others from the vicinity of Lenox and Stockbridge, Massachusetts. Their home in Berkshire was completed in 1808.

Samuel Collins died of consumption on July 4, 1840, "after having repeatedly foretold that he should die on that day". His widow died August 1, 1844.

Records show that Samuel Collins as a young boy served for seven days in the War of the Revolution. He is known to have been a private in Capt. Barker's Company which served under Lafayette in 1781, having enlisted at Wallingford, Connecticut. He is listed as a Connecticut pensioner under the Act of 1818 living in New York State at Berkshire. These records have been approved by the D.A.R. and the writer knows of two members of this branch of the Collins family who have been admitted to the organization as descendants of Samuel Collins.

HCH. ADDISON COLLINS I. (1796-1864)

Addison Collins I, first son of Samuel and Elizabeth Bishop Collins, was born March 29, 1796, at Lenox, Massachusetts. He was married to Sabrina Ball in July, 1829. She was the daughter of Josiah Ball, and was born December 18, 1806. They first settled in Rochester, New York, where their children were born. Addison I studied and practiced law in Rochester. Shortly after the birth of their children, they moved to Burkhires, Tioga County, New York, for a short time, and in the fall of 1833 they emigrated by prairie schooner to the "Yankee Settlement" in Homer Township, Will County, Illinois.

Addison I gave up his practice of law and devoted his time to farming. He was, however, elected on the Democratic ticket to the State Legislature and served one term as Supervisor and Justice of the Peace. He was the first County Surveyor of Will County.

He died March 27, 1864. His widow, Sabrina, died August 29, 1875. Both are buried in Barnett Cemetery in Homer Township, Will County, Illinois.

7. Minnie Born September 30, 1874. Died May 7, 1937.

All of the children of Franklin and Francis Poor Collins were born on the homestead in Homer Township, with the exception of Minnie, who was born in Joliet, Illinois. Sabrina, Louisa, and Frederick, are still living in Joliet. (1936)

ADDISON COLLINS II (1832-1917)

Addison Collins II, the second son of Addison I and Adeline Hall Collins, was born in Rochester, New York, October 25, 1832. When he was a year old, he was brought by his parents to Homer Township, Illinois. He was married in Chicago on January 9, 1857, to Catherine Cornelia Lyke, of New Lenox Township. She was born in Canisteo or Camptown, Madison County, New York, June 27, 1837, the daughter of Zachariah W. and Sarah Harder Lyke.

Addison II farmed a place adjoining his father's homestead until about 1870, when he retired and settled in the village of New Lenox, Illinois.

He was known as a progressive and successful farmer and was a highly respected member of the community in which he lived. He was particularly known for his outstanding honesty. He was a Republican, although he took no active part in politics.

Addison Collins II died October 20, 1917, at New Lenox. Catherine Cornelia Collins died in Oak Lawn, Illinois, November 13, 1912. Both are buried in Barnett Cemetery, Homer Township, Illinois.

ADDITIONAL NOTES ON CHART NO. I.

#5. William Cornwall

William Cornwall, a member of the lesser gentry in England, came to America during the reign of Charles I. He is believed to have been a Cavalier rather than a Puritan.

The records indicate that William Cornwall, an "Officer in the King's bodyguard" in England, received a grant of land in Connecticut for military service in the Indian Wars. That he was an early settler is known, as there is a military record of him in May, 1637, and a record of his living in Hartford in 1639. He is believed to have come to America before 1635.

William Cornwall moved to Middletown in 1650 or 1651 with a group of its first settlers. In 1654, 1664, and 1665, he was a representative to the Colonial Legislature. He died February 21, 1678, leaving an estate of 251 pounds. Nathan Collins was a witness to his will.

The Cornwall family is traced back to 1300 A.D. in England.

#8. Mary Trowbridge

The compiler of the records on the family of Thomas Trowbridge who lived in the vicinity at the time could not connect her with this prominent family.

#19. Gov. William Leete

Gov. Leete, the son of John Leete, was born in Dodington, England, in 1613, and was married at Nailsworth, August 1, 1636, to Anne Payne, daughter of Rev. John Payne of Southhoo.

He was the son of John Leete of Darlington, Huntingdonshire, England, and Anna Shute Leete. John, the father of Gov. Leete, was the son of Thomas Leete of Cambridgeshire, and Maria Slade, daughter of Edward Slade of Northamptonshire(?).

The Leete arms are traced back to 1210-45.

At the time this book was published in 1934, it listed 2,275 descendants of William Leete. This figure did not include the children of Leete daughters, but only those bearing the name of Leete, except that the first generation of girls is included in the total.

The earliest Leete records are found in the Domesday Book of William the Conqueror, which consisted of a report to the King on the status of subjects throughout the realm. The Leete family then held a manor in Gloucester, in Cheltenham. There is a record of an action at law in the reign of King John in 1209. Other records follow from time to time.

#19 (Continued)

The head of the Family as continuously traced stands now as -

- (1) Thomas Loote, of Kehynton (or Oakington) Cambridgeshire, England. Buried at Oakington, 1654.
- (2) Thomas Loote, son of (1) buried 1682.
- (3) Thomas, son of (2) named in 1613. Married June 2, 1574, Maria, daughter of Edward Slade of Rushton, County Northampton. She was buried at Oakington, September 25, 1610. He was church warden of Oakington in 1596 and was buried there on November 12, 1616.

ADDITIONAL NOTES ON CHART NO. IX

#6 Braed

Elizabeth Breed, who married Thomas Burrage, was the daughter of Allen Breed II, a husbandman of Lynn. He married Mary _____ before 1660. She died October 30, 1671. Allen Breed's will was made in 1701, and proved February 11, 1701. He is believed to have served in King Philip's War.

Allen Breed I, father of Allen II, was born in England in 1611, and settled in Lynn as early as 1630. He was a farmer. Allen Breed is known to have been an early settler on Long Island, but he returned to Lynn before 1646, when he is listed as a "Selectman". He was familiarly known as "old Allen Breed".

#11, 12, 23, 33, and 34 Burrage

John Burrage was born April 10, 1616, and died October 19, 1685. He married Joanna Stewers, about whose ancestry we have no information. They lived in Norton Subcourse, England.

John's parents were Thomas and Frances Ley Burrage. Thomas was the son of Richard Burrage who lived at Beothing and Norton Subcourse, Norfolk County, England.

Richard was the son of Robert Burrage of Beothing, Norfolk County, England, the first known of this line. His will was proved in the Bishop's Court at Norfolk, May 13, 1559, the year of his death. His wife was Rose _____.

#15, 31 Henry Cock and Henry Birdsall

Henry Cock (Cooke), a slaughterer, of Salem, Massachusetts, married Judith Birdsall (Birdsall, or Birdsail?) in June 1639. She was probably the daughter of Henry Birdsall who lived in Salem from 1639 to 1649. He was made a freeman May 2, 1658. Henry Birdsall was sexton of the meeting house with a salary of 3 pounds, 13 shillings, per year. He received 3 pence in addition for ringing the bell at funerals. He was a juror in 1659. Henry Birdsall died in 1671.

Henry Cooke and an Edward Ingram were appointed to keep the swine for six shillings an animal. Those men walked through the town and blew horns for the owners to bring out the animals. The animals were driven to an outlying pasture and returned to their owners at sunset. The keepers were held responsible for loss unless any were killed by wild beasts. In this case, the keepers were excused if they brought in part of the flesh as evidence.

Henry Cooke is known to have had a manservant.

ADDITIONAL NOTES ON CHART NO. IV.#12. 25. Hiland - Paroles

George Hiland (Hyland or Highland) is known to have been at Guilford on September 4, 1651, when he took the oath of fidelity. He may have lived at Weathersfield previously.

The records say that he married Mary, daughter of Abraham Cruttenden about 1665. The writer believes that he married some other Cruttenden girl, however, as a number of records show that Mary Cruttenden was married to George Bartlett. (See #15 and 16)

George Hiland died January 21, 1692-3, leaving no sons, but a number of daughters who married Guilford men and left descendants who were prominent in Guilford families.

Elizabeth Hyland, the eldest daughter, married Isaac Paroles and probably lived in what is known as the Hyland House. (See picture)

#23. 41. Susanna Gregson

Susanna Gregson was the daughter of Thomas Gregson, a member of the family of Cheverell Hall, Thirskshire, Early, England. He died at sea in 1646. Thomas Gregson was Treasurer and Magistrate of New Haven Colony and Commissioner for the United Colonies.

#22. John Kirby

John Kirby was baptized January 4, 1624, at Rowington, Warwickshire, England. He died in April, 1677, at Middlesex, Connecticut. He married Elizabeth (probably Hinds) who was probably born at Bury St Edmund's, England. She is believed to have died in Weathersfield, Connecticut, in 1697.

#33. Rev. Thomas Hooker

Rev. Thomas Hooker was born in England at Marblehead, Leicestershire, July 7, 1586. He graduated at Cambridge. After coming to America he lived at Newtown, Massachusetts, and Hartford, Connecticut. He died in 1647.

#34. 35. Lecte, Payne. See notes on Chart No. I.#31, 33, and 32. Abraham Cruttenden. See "Steiner" notes in second generations.

ADDITIONAL NOTES ON CHART NO. V-A#2 Josiah Ball II

Josiah Ball II was born in Stockbridge, Massachusetts, June 29, 1762. He was known as "an excellent teacher and maker of wooden shoes". After his marriage to Lucy Leonard he settled in Berkshire, New York.

#3. Josiah Ball I

Josiah Ball I was a shoemaker in Watertown, Massachusetts. He later moved to Stockbridge, Massachusetts, and from there removed to Berkshire, New York. He married Esther Hard and they had thirteen children. After moving to the new settlement at Berkshire, he kept an extra log house for some time to help the new settlers who needed shelter until their own houses were finished. At other times this building was used for a school house and for a shoe shop.

The town of Berkshire was named from the Berkshire Hills. The first settlers were mostly from Stockbridge, Massachusetts, in the Berkshires. Among the very earliest settlers was Daniel Ball, a son of Josiah and Esther Hard Ball.

CONCLUSION

The writer of this manuscript does not claim to have done any original research, but has merely attempted to compile data taken from the various sources mentioned into a convenient form for the use of those interested in this genealogy.

Many of the lines are as yet unfinished, and many mistakes are apparent, but the writer hopes to correct and to add to the data contained in this transcript. She will be glad to have errors or omissions brought to her attention.

In closing, the following quotation from "The Collins Family", by William N. Collins, seems appropriate:

"In my investigation of the records, ----, no disclosures have come to light to cast a shadow upon the honor of the family name. The simple virtues of our remotest known ancestor and the pilgrim who sought a home and larger life in the wilderness of New England, have characterized their descendants".

Bernice E. Collins,
725 Simpson Street,
Evanston, Illinois.
